An American B2 stealth bomber flew 37 hours from a U.S. base to destroy Iran's premier Fordow nuclear facility. Israel had decimated Iran's military and nuclear assets, but needed six 30,000-lb."bunker busters" to penetrate the Fordow site and finish the job—which the B2 delivered. ground. It is not in our national interest," adding that the U.S. should finish Israel.

Legacy media, U.S. lawmakers and pundits like Carlson accused Israel of trying to drag the United States into war with Iran. They also accused Trump of breaking his promise to put "America first," and keep the U.S. out of foreign wars. But ultimately, the President made the right choice to finish what Israel started, helping to destroy Iran's nuclear program once and for all.

Iran isn't just Israel's problem. It's a global threat to hundreds of millions of people. No wonder German Chancellor Friedrich Merz said eliminating Iran's nuclear program "is the dirty work Israel is doing for all of us."

Furthermore, Israel didn't seduce the U.S. into war, but rather requested that the U.S. come in as a "closer," using special military equipment that it owns exclusively, to finish the job.

When Trump promised to put "America first," he didn't promise to avoid war at all costs. He certainly didn't promise to appease aggressors as previous administrations have.

What Trump did promise is that he would use his considerable negotiating talents to end the conflict with Iran. Though he did his best, he couldn't convince the ayatollahs to give up their nuclear weapons ambitions. Not surprising: Iran's regime is composed of religious fanatics who don't see global politics as a process of rational transactions—as does Trump—but rather they are governed by a supremacist Islamist ideology whose goal is world domination.

Trump chose the right path, confronting Iran with strength rather than offering concession after concession. He refused to further indulge Ayatollah Khamenei's quest to destroy Israel, the United States and Western civilization.

Iran endangers the world, not just Israel. The Islamic Republic is the leading state sponsor of global terrorism and is responsible for savagely killing, not just Israelis, but also thousands of Americans and citizens of other countries. Indeed, during the October 7th massacre alone, Iran-backed Hamas murdered and kidnapped people of over 40 nationalities.

Iran has been developing missiles capable of carrying nuclear warheads, some of which can reach NATO members in Europe. Imagine a nuclear Iran shooting ballistic missiles at civilian centers, and providing this technology to its regional terror proxies.

Israel all but won the war, but needed U.S. help to finish the job efficiently. Israel was able to achieve most of its war goals alone, which is why it didn't ask the U.S. to join in when it began the campaign. But the IDF hadn't yet destroyed the biggest target—the Fordow enrichment site, which was critical to producing Iran's weapons-grade uranium.

The IDF doesn't have the munitions that were required to destroy the Fordow facility—specifically, Massive Ordnance Penetrators (MOPs), otherwise known as “bunker buster” bombs, which only the U.S. possesses. It also lacks the aircraft required to deliver these munitions—namely the American B2 stealth bomber. Fortunately, President Trump made the right choice and ordered B2 bombers equipped with MOPs to attack the Fordow facility, which is now, in his words, “completely and totally obliterated.”

Without American intervention, Israel might still have been able to destroy Fordow, but with much greater difficulty and no guarantee of success. It would have involved weeks of additional airstrikes and possibly would have required commando forces to enter the “America first” doesn’t mean appeasing tyrants. Israel attacked Iran thanks to years of failed appeasement. Both the Obama and Biden Administrations gave Iran billions of dollars in sanctions relief, hoping that in exchange the ayatollahs would abandon their pursuit of nuclear weapons. This policy failed miserably. Iran not only continued pursuing a nuclear bomb, but also used the billions in sanctions relief to fund their terrorist proxies and develop their missile arsenal. Isolationism like Tucker Carlson advocates amounts to similar appeasement of an avowed enemy.

Iran chose war. President Trump did his best to avoid war with Iran, offering to negotiate with its regime, despite objections from domestic sources and Israel. Indeed, Israel only attacked Iran after Trump’s efforts to negotiate with the Islamist regime failed.

President Trump discovered what Israel learned long ago: Negotiating with religious fanatics is not only difficult, but usually fruitless. Iran apparently refuses any deal that prevents it from fulfilling its objectives—destruction of Israel, the U.S. and the entire West in favor of a global Islamist caliphate. Sacrificing its nuclear weapons program would severely impede Iran’s ability to achieve these objectives, and thus, it is unlikely to acquiesce.

President Trump did his best to avoid war, as he promised to do. But he also promised that “Iran cannot have a nuclear weapon.” Clearly, fulfilling this promise required American military force. Israel didn’t need, nor did it ask for, a long-term war pact or American boots on the ground. It simply needed one extra push from the U.S. to finish the job—to destroy Iran’s nuclear program once and for all.

As for media fear-mongering that the U.S. will be disarmed, it is a “fear-mongering” lie. It is not that Israel since the Iranian Revolution. The recent disarming of Iran ~~and its regional allies by Israel and the U.S. reduce~~ rather than increases this threat.

Please make the point when speaking with family, friends, colleagues—or in letters to the editor—that President Trump’s decision to lend Israel’s imminent victory its knockout punch superbly fulfilled some of America’s top priorities.

P.S. I’m sure you’d agree: If your enemy says they want to kill you and take your land, you’d be smart to believe them. If you try to make peace, but they refuse all your offers and continue to make murderous threats, it’s time to eliminate this enemy. Israel has faced exactly this danger with the Palestinians—yet continued to hope for peace . . . until Hamas’s October 7 massacre and kidnappings. Finally, Israel and many lovers of Israel are facing reality. They’ve concluded their futile dreams of peace must end. They must finally defeat their Palestinian enemies—starting with Hamas and other jihadi terrorists. I hope you’ll agree that we supporters of the Israel-U.S. relationship need to speak out. FLAME’s new hasbarah—explanatory message—“End of the Palestinian Lie”—describes how Israel and the West have for 77 years bought the myth that the Palestinians want peace. It details the many offers of land for peace Israel, the U.N. and the U.S. have made to give Palestinians their own state—all refused. Finally, it explains why Israel must adopt a bold new strategy—
